Sainsbury's Inclusive Community Training (AK4A ICT) Programme Case Study Information for Registered Partners

Registered Partners of the Sainsbury's Inclusive Community Training Programme, are expected to complete at least one case study per programme year highlighting the impact the training had on a particular workshop participant (or organisation) from the target audience of the initiative. E.g. a parent, carer, support worker, healthcare professional or volunteer.

These case studies will be used by the English Federation of Disability Sport (EFDS) and its partner organisations to support the promotion and further development of the AK4A ICT programme. In order to gain maximum impact, the workshop participant(s) who are featured in the case studies should provide contact details in case EFDS need to contact them for further information. Please note, these contact details will not be shared outside of the Sainsbury's Inclusive Community Training Programme team.

Subject to sufficient detail being provided, EFDS will turn the information received into branded case studies which will be shared with CSPs for their own promotion and local media where appropriate. Therefore to ensure the value of the case study please collect as much detail as you can and include photos where possible.

To support you to collect this information we have developed a case study template in a questionnaire format. The template has been designed to encourage participants to consider the work they were doing with disabled people prior to the training, the key messages they took from the workshop and the impact it has had on themselves and the individuals they work with.

The template has been designed to act as a guide but we really encourage you to use other ways to collate impact stories. For example:

- Sound bites
- Video clips
- A series of captioned photos etc.

If you have any questions about the expectations of registered partners please contact: AK4A@efds.co.uk / 01509 227751.
